Singular Focus. Limitless Passion.

At some point, your data should do you the favor of becoming information.

Business intelligence is more than mere reporting. It's about taking your in-house data and turning it into real, actionable guidance. It's about letting information finally paint a picture of overall business health and performance. It's about making good decisions and saving real money. It's about not guessing anymore. It's about time.

Get smart. Act smart.

BI isn't just a checkbox for progressive organizations; typically, BI is considered as a whole, a critical strategic initiative for any company looking to understand its business health. Because we understand what's expected of a BI initiative, we offer a complete BI practice, with services ranging from tactical to wholly strategic:
- Preparation and planning
- Project team augmentation
- Full lifecycle implementations
- Data warehousing to support the underlying data structure required for a successful BI deployment

Structured Approach. Proven Results

MIPRO shares your passion to truly understand your business and the benefits you are trying to—and expect to—achieve from your BI investment. Once we are able to understand your objectives and business processes, we can guarantee an end deliverable that is more than just a presentation of data in a specific format—we can guarantee a true solution that answers business questions and provides operational guidance.

Our BI practice supports market-leading solutions from Oracle BI and SAP Business Objects, and is tiered so as to be modular enough to meet whatever BI requirements you have. MIPRO BI, as a services practice, is comprised of:

- Knowledge On-Demand Whether you need a technical architect, installation assessment, or a report developer to design and develop Crystal Reports or Web Intelligence reports, MIPRO has the talent to deliver on a wide array of BI requirements.

- BI Packaged Services Our experience and conversations with customers and partners led us to develop solutions that are frequently demanded by organizations considering BI. Our packaged services are pre-engineered solutions designed to be performed with consistency and repeatability and that result in strong value-add deliverables. Each of these packaged services can be delivered in a rapid time-to-vale manner, providing you with meaningful results, quickly.

- Full Lifecycle Implementations From full-bore business solutions to technical architecture analysis on a local or global scale, MIPRO can help lead you from strategy and planning to a successful live BI implementation. Our consultants are experienced in all phases of a new product implementation or existing product upgrade or migration. We live and love to navigate the complete BI project lifecycle, not just participate in a limited piece of the project. This cradle-to-grave experience provides our consultants real-world insight during the project, as they help to identify and avoid potential pitfalls and maximize strategic benefit.
